Alec joined TIME in 2018 with extensive experience providing sophisticated solutions for high net worth families, executives, business owners and their professional advisors in the areas of wealth protection and transfer. Insurance licensed since college, Alec actually spent the initial years of his career as an attorney, focusing on tax, trust, estate and business planning solutions. As he transitioned his legal experience to become a trusted and valuable consultant, he was able to assist advisors with their individual and business owner clients. Together, they provided solutions focusing on wealth protection, legacy enhancement, multi-generational wealth, and business succession planning when insurance based solutions are being considered as an option to help meet client goals.

Alec's combined legal and insurance background adds value working as a consultative resource to assist not only advisors and their clients, but also the clients' other trusted advisors (attorneys, CPAs, bankers, etc.) in the areas of estate, wealth, charitable, business succession and executive compensation planning.

At TIME, we've assembled some of the most knowledgeable and talented professionals in the industry. Alec understands the advisory business and is ready to provide you and your clients the objective analysis and consultative process necessary to guide appropriate decision making regarding wealth transfer, retirement and business planning issues.

Alec holds FINRA Series 6, 7, and 63 licenses and also holds life, health and long term care insurance licenses. When not working, Alec enjoys spending time with his wife, Tami, his three children and two grandsons. His other interests include boating and golfing.
